For more than 25 years, the Kings Park Heritage Museum has been cultivated and developed to provide a gallery of artifacts, photographs, records and memorabilia relating to the rich history of the Kings Park hamlets, the community, the Kings Park Central School District and the greater surrounding North Shore. Its mission has been to preserve the town's development with its rich significant history, from pirates to Revolutionary War, from cultural diversities to the growing community of today and its traditions. The museum provides educational services for students and the general public and is a two-time national award winner and is recognized as the only school-community museum in the United States.

In an effort to continue our progress, we seek financial support. The heritage museum is self-sustaining, but not a 501c3. It is under the supervision of the Kings Park Central School District municipality, but the school district does not fund the museum. We are respectfully asking for individual, family, corporate and grant sponsorships to help reach our growth goals, proceed with projects of restorations and improvements and to continue making the Leo P. Ostebo Kings Park Heritage Museum one of the most recognized and respected history museums.

All sponsorship donors will have their name(s) on the Heritage Donation Sponsorship Donors page. As well, from September through June, we hold several Cultural Events and Hall of Fame celebrations. You're invited to every event and to enjoy tours of the museum. Please refer to our website, email or call for any questions and to schedule your tour(s). Thank you in advance for your contribution.
